Item 8.01 Other Events.

On July 13, 2005, Coca-Cola Enterprises Inc. ("CCE") purchased options to acquire common stock and equity equivalents of Bravo! Foods International Corp ("Bravo") from certain nonaffiliated shareholders of Bravo. This is intended to be a first step in acquiring slightly more than 50% of Bravo's common equity on a fully diluted basis. Bravo is a producer and distributor of branded, shelf stable, flavored milk products including Slammers Ultimate Milk and cross-promotional brands with companies such as Masterfoods and Marvel Comics.

As part of this transaction, CCE is negotiating with the management of Bravo for master distribution rights for Bravo's products, and for the purchase of common stock directly from Bravo. The shares purchased directly from Bravo, when combined with the shares subject to the options, would constitute a majority stake as described above.

The exercise of the options is dependent on the satisfactory completion of due diligence and reaching agreement on the terms of the distribution and share purchase agreements. It is anticipated that CCE's total investment would be approximately $38 million upon exercise of the options and the purchase of common shares from Bravo.

The options expire on August 31, 2005.
