Dear Graham Employees,

Earlier this morning, we announced that the respective Board of Directors for Graham Packaging and Silgan Holdings approved an agreement for Silgan to acquire Graham in a cash and stock deal. Attached is a press release containing details of the transaction as well as an invitation to join an employee meeting later today.

This decision and the willingness to combine our businesses required a lot of thought from many people. Silgan showed a strong interest in Graham as a result of the strategic advantages that Graham provides it. A few of the reasons why we are so attractive include the following:

- We have created an industry leading innovation and technology strategy, with very strong capabilities in machine building, barrier innovation, and process innovation.
- Our market based approach and particular strength in food and beverage applications has helped Graham become many of our customers preferred supplier. These customers turn to us first whenever innovation and difficult packaging solutions are required to differentiate their product in the market place.
- We have created a culture of continuous improvement through our Earnings Improvement Process, our Sales Improvement Process and our Graham Performance System, all business systems that have helped drive improved safety, quality, and financial performance in what has been a very difficult business environment. We also have shown an ability to effectively integrate acquisitions and realize value from them.

Silgan's proposed purchase of Graham is a great compliment to the people of our company who have worked so hard to make Graham what it is today. We intend to retain the plastics business headquarters in York, Pennsylvania.

This combination is unique and a great one for both organizations. The core values of both companies are very consistent, and the combined organization will utilize the best talents from both companies in the future. Cost saving strategies and actions are an important part of this transaction, and will help us provide more competitive solutions for our customers.

The transaction is expected to close in the second half of 2011. While we are in a period of transition from a corporate perspective, we need to continue to execute against our objectives and strategies, achieve our targeted results and innovate and serve our customers better than ever before. Achieving these objectives is what has made Graham successful in the past and will make us even more successful in the future and more importantly will ensure that our customers continue to choose Graham as their source of innovative and sustainable plastic packaging solutions.

Thanks for your ongoing support.

Mark S. Burgess, CEO
