Enbridge Clarifies Royalty Review Remarks

CALGARY, Alberta, October 4, 2007 Enbridge Inc. (TSX and NYSE:ENB) clarified certain remarks made yesterday at its ninth annual Enbridge Day Investment Community Conference in Toronto regarding the impact of the current Alberta Royalty Review on oil sands development. Enbridge shares its customers' need to ensure that Alberta remains a competitive business environment with a stable, positive and predictable investment climate, said Patrick D. Daniel, President and Chief Executive Officer, Enbridge Inc. While we also share Albertans' concerns with the impact of our recent growth, we have always maintained that addressing growth with a new provincial royalty regime could be a costly mistake. The oil and gas industry is risky; industry costs are increasing dramatically, and the return on investment, especially in the oil sands, is marginal. Sudden changes in our royalty system, especially if they are based on out-of-date data on costs or industry conditions, could have serious negative impacts on all Albertans.

To be clear, while royalty rates are important to oil sands development, Enbridge believes they are one of several important factors used in determining the economic viability of such large infrastructure projects. Many other factors, such as discounts on pricing of Canadian crude oil, labour, and construction costs also ultimately impact project economics. In combination, these factors are all trending unfavourably and jeopardize the ability of the oil sands to continue to contribute to the prosperity of Alberta.

Obviously however, our royalty system and how it may be altered, particularly for projects already underway, impacts investor confidence. Any changes should be carefully considered and cautiously implemented. We believe the Alberta government is faced with a critical decision as it considers the recommendations put forward by the Alberta Royalty Review Panel. It is a decision that will impact the prosperity Albertans have come to expect. We support the Alberta government's consultation process and believe that a fair and balanced royalty system, built for today's economic realities, will support the on-going development of projects such as the oil sands.
