Our union with First Washington enhances our geographic franchise, expanding our presence into central New Jersey. These additional banking offices will provide increased convenience for our existing customers in northern and southern New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania.

We are delighted to join the Fulton Financial family, said Opatut. We are pleased that Fulton has recognized what all of us at First Washington have achieved over the past fifteen years. Our shareholders, our customers, our employees and our communities have embraced our way of doing business, and the outstanding service we provide will continue in the future.

By joining with Fulton Financial, we will be able to offer our customers the wide array of products and services associated with a larger financial organization while remaining true to the community-based style of banking that our customers have come to appreciate and trust, said Schneider. We will retain the qualities that are important to and create value for the communities we serve: our name, our philosophy, our local decision-making, our dedicated employees and our active community involvement.

Fulton Financial will acquire all issued and outstanding shares of common stock of First Washington Financial Corp. According to the merger agreement, each share of First Washington common stock outstanding at the time of the merger will be exchanged for 1.35 shares of Fulton Financial common stock.
