NANOGEN SEEKING ADDITIONAL STOCKHOLDER VOTES FOR

DECEMBER 15, 2004 MEETING

SAN DIEGO, CA (December 14, 2004) Nanogen, Inc. (Nasdaq: NGEN) announced today that it is continuing to seek votes or votes by proxy for its adjourned special stockholder meeting scheduled to reconvene on December 15, 2004 at 2 PM PST at its offices at 10398 Pacific Center Court, San Diego, California. The meeting is being held to vote on the issuance of shares of Nanogen common stock in connection with its proposed merger with Epoch Biosciences, Inc. and to amend the Nanogen certificate of incorporation allowing it to expand the number authorized shares. The company continues to receive overwhelming stockholder support. Of the proxies received by Nanogen, more than 90 percent of the shares are in favor of both proposals. However, the number of shares represented by proxy remains approximately 0.6 million votes shy of the necessary 16.7 million votes to increase the number of authorized shares of Nanogen common stock. Approval of the increase of authorized shares is necessary to complete the merger.

Nanogen stockholders as of October 26, 2004 who have not voted and wish to do so should contact the company's proxy solicitor, Georgeson Shareholder at (800) 459-3121.

Forward-Looking Statement

This press release contains forward-looking statements that are subject to risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those set forth in the forward-looking statements, including statements about the outcome of the special meeting of Nanogen, consummation of the pending merger of Nanogen and Epoch, future financial and operating results of the combined company and benefits of the pending merger, whether patents owned or licensed by Nanogen will be developed into products, whether the patents owned by Nanogen offer any protection against competitors with competing technologies, whether products under development can be successfully developed and commercialized, whether results reported by our customers or partners can be identically replicated, and other risks and uncertainties discussed under the caption Factors That May Affect Results and elsewhere in Nanogen's Form 10-K or Form 10-Q most recently filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. These forward-looking statements speak only as of the date hereof. Nanogen disclaims any intent or obligation to update these forward-looking statements.

In addition to the specific risks identified in the preceding paragraph, mergers involve a number of special risks, including diversion of management's attention to the assimilation of the technology and personnel of acquired businesses, costs related to the merger and the integration of acquired products, technologies and employees into Nanogen's business and product offerings. Achieving the anticipated benefits of the pending merger will depend, in part, upon whether the integration of the acquired products, technology, or employees is accomplished in an efficient and effective manner, and there can be no assurance that this will occur. The difficulties of such integration may be increased by the necessity of coordinating geographically disparate organizations, the complexity of the technologies being integrated, and the necessity of integrating personnel with disparate business backgrounds and combining different corporate cultures. The inability of management to successfully integrate the business of the two companies, and any related diversion of management's attention, could have a material adverse effect on the combined company's business, operating results and financial condition.

The proxies held by Nanogen are revocable by the granting stockholders at any time prior to voting at the special meetings. Revocations of proxies by Nanogen stockholders could materially impact the ability of Nanogen to establish a quorum and obtain approval of its proposals.
