The Markets in Review

Dear Shareholder,

Diverging monetary policies and shifting economic outlooks across regions have been the overarching themes driving financial markets over the past couple of years. With U.S. growth outpacing the global economic recovery while inflationary pressures remained low, investors spent most of 2015 anticipating the curtailment of the Federal Reserve's near-zero interest rate policy, which ultimately came in December. In contrast, the European Central Bank and the Bank of Japan took measures to stimulate growth. In this environment, the U.S. dollar strengthened considerably, causing profit challenges for U.S. exporters and high levels of volatility in emerging market currencies and commodities.

Global market volatility increased in the latter part of 2015 and continued into early 2016. Oil prices collapsed in mid-2015 due to excess supply, and remained precarious while the world's largest oil producers sought to negotiate a deal. Developing countries, many of which rely heavily on oil exports to sustain their economies, were particularly affected by falling oil prices. Meanwhile, China, one of the world's largest oil consumers, exhibited further signs of slowing economic growth. This, combined with a depreciating yuan and declining confidence in the country's policymakers, stoked worries about the potential impact of China's weakness on the broader global economy.

Toward the end of the period, volatility abated as investors were relieved to find that conditions were not as bad as previously feared. While the recent selloff in risk assets has resulted in more reasonable valuations and some appealing entry points, investors continue to face mixed economic data and uncertainty relating to oil prices, corporate earnings and an unusual U.S. presidential election season.

For the 12-month period, higher quality assets such as U.S. Treasuries, municipal bonds and investment grade corporate bonds generated positive returns, while risk assets such as equities and high yield bonds broadly declined.

At BlackRock, we believe investors need to think globally, extend their scope across a broad array of asset classes and be prepared to move freely as market conditions change over time. We encourage you to talk with your financial advisor and visit blackrock.com for further insight about investing in today's markets.

Performance and Portfolio Management Commentary

Returns for the six months ended February 29, 2016 were as follows:

	Returns Based On
	Market Price	NAV
BHK <sup>1,2</sup>	6.09%	0.86%
Lipper Corporate BBB-Rated Debt Funds (Leveraged) <sup>3</sup>	1.21%	(1.42)%

<sup>2</sup> The Trust's discount to NAV, which narrowed during the period, accounts for the difference between performance based on price and performance based on NAV.

The following discussion relates to the Trust's absolute performance based on NAV:

What factors influenced performance?

The main contributor to the Trust's absolute performance was its allocation to U.S. Treasuries. An allocation to global sovereign/supranational/agency issues and investment grade corporate securities also contributed to performance.

The largest detractor from performance was the Trust's allocation to asset-backed securities (ABS). Allocations to U.S. high yield corporate and commercial mortgage-backed securities (CMBS) also detracted from results.

The use of swaps on U.S. Treasuries as a hedge of portfolio duration and risk management detracted from performance during the reporting period. The use of U.S. Treasury futures contributed to performance as interest rates drifted lower in the United States during the reporting period due to higher market volatility and a general risk-off environment.

Describe recent portfolio activity.

During the six-month period, the Trust maintained a low level of risk on expectations of increased volatility. This was in light of a high level of market volatility following the depreciation of the Chinese yuan by the People's Bank of China in August 2015 and concerns over slowing global economic growth. At the beginning of the reporting period, the Trust maintained a consistent allocation, favoring agency mortgage backed securities (MBS), high yield corporates and structured products (ABS and CMBS). However, volatility increased near year-end 2015 in the wake of the first U.S. Federal Reserve interest rate hike in nine years and another depreciation of the yuan. As a result, the Trust's risk level was further reduced by decreasing exposure to structured products, corporate credit and sovereign securities in favor of U.S. Treasuries.

Describe portfolio positioning at period end.

At period end, the Trust maintained diversified exposure to non-government spread sectors, including investment grade credit, high yield credit, CMBS, ABS and non-agency residential MBS. The Trust also held exposure to government-related sectors such as U.S. Treasury securities, agency debt and agency MBS. The Trust ended the period with a long duration profile.

Performance results include adjustments made for financial reporting purposes in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

The following discussion relates to the Trust's absolute performance based on NAV:

What factors influenced performance?

Credit markets were in negative territory for the six months ended February 29, 2016, driven in large part by a continued decline in commodity prices. Following a brief recovery entering the period, energy prices were the hardest hit as crude oil slid to below $30 a barrel. The Trust's moderate exposure to the energy sector was the most notable detractor from returns. Holdings within the banking and transportation services industries were also significant contributors to the Trust's negative return. Positions in floating rate loan interests (bank loans) and convertible bonds hurt performance as well.

The Trust's exposure to issues in the health care, gaming and wirelines segments aided performance, as did holdings of preferred securities. A derivative strategy commonly used by the Trust is to assume short positions in equity futures in order to reduce overall risk in the portfolio and manage the volatility of its equity holdings. This strategy added to returns as equities in aggregate declined modestly over the six months.

Describe recent portfolio activity.

The Trust began the period somewhat conservatively positioned and continued to reduce risk as volatility increased. In this vein, the Trust increased its net equity short position. The Trust also continued to trim exposure to energy-related issues, selling down positions across independent energy, midstream, and oil field services companies. Finally, the Trust maintained meaningful exposure to bank loans, which are higher in an issuer's capital structure and generally less volatile than high yield bonds. The Trust added to names in the technology and packaging industries over the period.

Describe portfolio positioning at period end.

At period end, the Trust held the majority of its total portfolio in corporate bonds, with the next most significant allocation in floating rate loan interests (bank loans). Within high yield corporates, the Trust had modest exposure to BB-rated bonds and a meaningful allocation to high conviction CCC-rated issues. The largest individual positions included Ally Financial (banking), First Data Corp. (technology) and Altice NV (cable & satellite). The Trust also maintained exposure to equity and equity-like assets in seeking to improve the overall risk/reward profile of the portfolio, while managing equity risk. Overall, the Trust was positioned with a moderate risk profile on the view that commodity weakness and broader macroeconomic uncertainty could drive further volatility in credit markets.

Edgar Filing: BLACKROCK INCOME TRUST, INC. - Form N-CSRS

The Trust's discount to NAV, which narrowed during the period, accounts for the difference between performance based on price and performance based on NAV.

The following discussion relates to the Trust's absolute performance based on NAV:

What factors influenced performance?

The largest positive contributor to performance was the Trust's allocation in well-structured agency collateralized mortgage obligations (CMOs) that offered call protection and seasoned collateral with favorable risk/reward characteristics and attractive income.

The Trust's duration positioning and swap strategies, as well as its allocations to 15- and 30-year pass-throughs, detracted from performance.

The Trust may use derivatives including futures, options, swaps and swaptions, mainly for the purpose of managing duration, convexity (the rate at which duration changes in response to interest rate movements) and yield curve positioning. During the period, the Trust primarily used financial futures contracts that did not have a significant impact on performance.

Describe recent portfolio activity.

During the six-month period, the Trust marginally decreased long exposure to agency CMOs, non-agency adjustable rate mortgages and CMOs, and increased its short exposure to 15- and 30-year pass-through mortgage-backed securities (MBS). In addition, the Trust marginally increased its long exposure to U.S. Treasuries, as well as commercial mortgage-backed securities (CMBS).

Describe portfolio positioning at period end.

As of period end, the Trust continued to be overweight in agency CMOs. In addition, the Trust continued to maintain allocations to 30-year MBS and some 15-year MBS with higher coupons. The Trust had a reduced allocation to non-agency MBS and slightly increased exposure to CMBS.

The views expressed reflect the opinions of BlackRock as of the date of this report and are subject to change based on changes in market, economic or other conditions. These views are not intended to be a forecast of future events and are no guarantee of future results.

The Benefits and Risks of Leveraging

The Trusts may utilize leverage to seek to enhance the distribution rate on, and net asset value ( NAV ) of, their common shares ( Common Shares ). However, these objectives cannot be achieved in all interest rate environments.

In general, the concept of leveraging is based on the premise that the financing cost of leverage, which is based on short-term interest rates, is normally lower than the income earned by a Trust on its longer-term portfolio investments purchased with the proceeds from leverage. To the extent that the total assets of the Trusts (including the assets obtained from leverage) are invested in higher-yielding portfolio investments, the Trusts' shareholders benefit from the incremental net income. The interest earned on securities purchased with the proceeds from leverage is paid to shareholders in the form of dividends, and the value of these portfolio holdings is reflected in the per share NAV.

To illustrate these concepts, assume a Trust's capitalization is $100 million and it utilizes leverage for an additional $30 million, creating a total value of $130 million available for investment in longer-term income securities. If prevailing short-term interest rates are 3% and longer-term interest rates are 6%, the yield curve has a strongly positive slope. In this case, a Trust's financing costs on the $30 million of proceeds obtained from leverage are based on the lower short-term interest rates. At the same time, the securities purchased by a Trust with the proceeds from leverage earn income based on longer-term interest rates. In this case, a Trust's financing cost of leverage is significantly lower than the income earned on a Trust's longer-term investments acquired from such leverage proceeds, and therefore the holders of Common Shares ( Common Shareholders ) are the beneficiaries of the incremental net income.

However, in order to benefit shareholders, the return on assets purchased with leverage proceeds must exceed the ongoing costs associated with the leverage. If interest and other costs of leverage exceed the Trusts' return on assets purchased with leverage proceeds, income to shareholders is lower than if the Trusts had not used leverage. Furthermore, the value of the Trusts' portfolio investments generally varies inversely with the direction of long-term interest rates, although other factors can influence the value of portfolio investments. In contrast, the value of the Trusts' obligations under their respective leverage arrangements generally does not fluctuate in relation to interest rates. As a result, changes in interest rates can influence the Trusts' NAVs positively or negatively. Changes in the future direction of interest rates are very difficult to predict accurately, and there is no assurance that the Trusts' intended leveraging strategy will be successful.

Leverage also generally causes greater changes in the Trusts' NAVs, market prices and dividend rates than comparable portfolios without leverage. In a declining market, leverage is likely to cause a greater decline in the NAV and market price of Trusts' shares than if the Trusts were not leveraged. In addition, the Trusts may be required to sell portfolio securities at inopportune times or at distressed values in order to comply with regulatory requirements applicable to the use of leverage or as required by the terms of leverage instruments, which may cause the Trusts to incur losses. The use of leverage may limit the Trusts' ability to invest in certain types of securities or use certain types of hedging strategies. The Trusts incur expenses in connection with the use of leverage, all of which are borne by shareholders and may reduce income to the shareholders. Moreover, to the extent the calculation of the Trusts' investment advisory fees includes assets purchased with the proceeds of leverage, the investment advisory fees payable to the Trusts' investment advisor will be higher than if the Trusts did not use leverage.

Each Trust may utilize leverage through a credit facility, reverse repurchase agreements or treasury dollar roll transactions as described in the Notes to Financial Statements.

Under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the 1940 Act ), the Trusts are permitted to issue debt up to 33% of their total managed assets. A Trust may voluntarily elect to limit its leverage to less than the maximum amount permitted under the 1940 Act. In addition, a Trust may also be subject to certain asset coverage, leverage or portfolio composition requirements imposed by its credit facility, which may be more stringent than those imposed by the 1940 Act.

If a Trust segregates or designates on its books and records cash or liquid assets having values not less than the value of a Trust's obligations under the reverse repurchase agreement (including accrued interest) or the treasury roll transaction, then such transaction is not considered a senior security and is not subject to the foregoing limitations and requirements under the 1940 Act.

Derivative Financial Instruments

Edgar Filing: BLACKROCK INCOME TRUST, INC. - Form N-CSRS

The Trusts may invest in various derivative financial instruments. Derivative financial instruments are used to obtain exposure to a security, index and/or market without owning or taking physical custody of securities or to manage market, equity, credit, interest rate, foreign currency exchange rate, commodity and/or other risks. Derivative financial instruments may give rise to a form of economic leverage. Derivative financial instruments also involve risks, including the imperfect correlation between the value of a derivative financial instrument and the underlying asset, possible default of the counterparty to the transaction or illiquidity of the derivative financial instrument. The Trusts' ability to use a derivative financial instrument successfully depends on the investment advisor's ability to predict pertinent market movements accurately, which cannot be assured. The use of derivative financial instruments may result in losses greater than if they had not been used, may limit the amount of appreciation a Trust can realize on an investment and/or may result in lower distributions paid to shareholders. The Trusts' investments in these instruments are discussed in detail in the Notes to Financial Statements.
