Spectra Energy Employee Q&A

Q 50: In the news release, it is reported that Enbridge will sell $2 billion dollars in non-core assets over the next year. Do you have a sense for what part(s) of the business could make up those non-core assets?

A: While Enbridge has not publicly stated which specific non-core assets are under consideration, in late September, half of the announced target was reached when Enbridge agreed to sell its 994 mile South East Saskatchewan pipeline network to Tundra Energy Marketing for C$1.075 billion (US$818 million USD). Management will, in the normal course, continue to assess monetization opportunities as a means of refining strategy and bolstering financial capacity. It is important, however, to keep the size of these divestitures in context. The September 6th joint press release by Enbridge and Spectra Energy did highlight that the proposed transaction would create a combined company with a C$165 billion (US$ 127 billion) enterprise value.
