FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Dynegy Inc. Responds to Filings from Seneca Capital

HOUSTON – October 21, 2010 – Dynegy Inc. (NYSE: DYN) today issued the following statement in response to the filings by Seneca Capital regarding the pending acquisition of Dynegy by an affiliate of The Blackstone Group L.P. (“Blackstone”) (NYSE: BX), and pursuant to which Dynegy stockholders would receive $4.50 in cash for each outstanding share of Dynegy common stock they own:

Seneca’s position is not in the best interests of Dynegy’s stockholders. A hedge fund like Seneca may have many reasons to take a risk on a deal. Dynegy does not know all of Seneca’s interests in this situation. What Dynegy does know is that Seneca has not been a significant long-term holder of Dynegy stock. In fact, Seneca’s public filings showed an ownership position of less than 1% before the Blackstone transaction was announced. Seneca has purchased the vast majority of its position since the announcement at prices above $4.50. Seneca’s interests are NOT aligned with those of all Dynegy stockholders.

In recommending that stockholders vote for the proposal to adopt the merger agreement with Blackstone, the Dynegy Board of Directors carefully considered a number of important factors, including that Dynegy will continue to face significant challenges and that its ability to operate could be attended by significant risks.

Since August, when the Board reached its conclusion that the risks associated with an independent strategy outweigh the potential benefits of continuing as a stand-alone company, those risks have only increased. Commodity prices have continued to deteriorate. Using September commodity pricing, Dynegy’s total projected negative cash flow has increased from the $1.1 billion anticipated in August to $1.6 billion over the next five years.

The analysis of numerous independent sell-side financial analysts and ratings agencies, who have a deep understanding of Dynegy’s financial condition and the power generation industry, appears to support the Dynegy Board’s conclusion that the Blackstone transaction is the best alternative available for Dynegy’s stockholders¹:

- “[The] [c]urrent $4.50/sh offer appears reasonable as market outlook remains challenging for the next few years. We continue to believe Blackstone’s offer price remains a reasonable deal for current shareholders, especially as natural gas pricing has maintained its downward trend.” – Daniel W. Scott, Dahlman Rose & Co., October 6, 2010
- “Based on our assessment of these public filings, Dynegy’s financial profile is expected to be quite fragile, particularly during 2011 and 2012, when the company is projected to generate both negative operating cash flow and negative free cash flow due to weak operating margins and the required funding of their capital investment programs.” – Moody’s, October 1, 2010

- “DYN value is very sensitive to assumptions. Time to return to a balanced supply demand power market is one of two big drivers for our IPP NAVs (the other being nat gas prices). Our base DYN assumption is a weighted average of 6 years to reach market equilibrium resulting in a $3.25/sh NAV, ~25% below BX’s take out offer.” – Brandon Blossman, Tudor Pickering Holt, October 11, 2010
- “Since the deal was announced on August 13th, Dynegy’s short run economics have been deteriorating. The forward price of Natural Gas, which sets the price utilities and municipalities pay for power, has dropped 9% since the deal was announced, and 21% from management’s expectations at the 2011 end of the curve.” – Stephen Grahling, Jefferies & Co., October 5, 2010

In addition, while evaluating Dynegy’s alternatives, the Dynegy Board decided not to pursue an asset sale on a stand-alone basis, including the sale of the four natural gas-fired assets proposed to be sold to NRG Energy, Inc. concurrently with the closing of the Blackstone transaction, for several reasons. These reasons include the fact that such an asset sale is not permitted under Dynegy’s existing $1.9 billion credit facility and, if undertaken, would result in the loss of that facility, exacerbating Dynegy’s liquidity challenges. If Dynegy did the NRG asset sale itself, Dynegy would face a total projected negative cash flow substantially in excess of $1.5 billion over the next five years.

In summary, Dynegy believes Blackstone’s cash offer of $4.50 per share provides Dynegy stockholders with full, fair and immediate value and is in the best interest of Dynegy and its stockholders. If the Blackstone transaction does not close, Dynegy believes its stockholders could lose significant value and face future dilution and further loss of investment.

For more information, please see Dynegy’s definitive proxy statement, which was filed with the SEC on October 4, 2010; an Investor Presentation that was filed with the SEC on October 5, 2010 and an update to that Investor Presentation that was filed with the SEC on October 19, 2010; and letters to stockholders that were filed with the SEC and issued as press releases on October 6, 2010 and October 19, 2010, respectively. Dynegy urges all Dynegy stockholders to review the definitive proxy statement and other materials as they contain important detailed information about the merger agreement and the reasons why Dynegy’s Board approved the merger agreement.

Dynegy’s Board of Directors recommends stockholders vote FOR the proposal to adopt the merger agreement with Blackstone today – by telephone, by Internet or by signing, dating and returning the Company’s WHITE proxy card. The affirmative vote of holders of a majority of Dynegy’s outstanding shares is required to approve the proposal to adopt the merger agreement. A failure to vote will have the same effect as a vote AGAINST the proposal to adopt the merger agreement.
