This filing consists of “Q & A: Merger-Related Hiring Freeze” posted on the Merck & Co., Inc. (“Merck”) internal website on May 8, 2009, in connection with the proposed transaction between Merck and Schering-Plough Corporation.

Published in The Daily on May 8 article 1

Q&A: Merger-Related Hiring Freeze

Q: Merck announced in early March that we and Schering-Plough would institute hiring freezes. Now I see we are posting jobs for BRGOS, sales reps and manufacturing jobs for vaccines. Why?

A: We did announce, along with Schering-Plough, a hiring freeze to keep roles open for Schering-Plough colleagues after close of the transaction. We also announced there would be exceptions for critical business needs, like BRGOS.

The jobs we have recently posted are critical jobs not only for BRGOS-related roles, but also for sales jobs in certain emerging markets and jobs supporting our vaccines supply. We are still committed to keeping roles open for employees in the new combined company. At the same time, though, we must remain focused on our business and ensure we have the talent to meet the current needs of our customers and patients around the world.

Schering-Plough will also likely move forward with externally filling a small number of roles for the launch of their product Saphris.

Forward-Looking Statements

This communication includes “forward-looking statements” within the meaning of the safe harbor provisions of the United States Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Such statements may include, but are not limited to, statements about the benefits of the proposed merger between Merck and Schering-Plough, including future financial and operating results, the combined company’s plans, objectives, expectations and intentions and other statements that are not historical facts. Such statements are based upon the current beliefs and expectations of Merck’s and Schering-Plough’s management and are subject to significant risks and uncertainties. Actual results may differ from those set forth in the forward-looking statements.

The following factors, among others, could cause actual results to differ from those set forth in the forward-looking statements: the possibility that the expected synergies from the proposed merger of Merck and Schering-Plough will not be realized, or will not be realized within the expected time period, due to, among other things, the impact of pharmaceutical industry regulation and pending legislation that could affect the pharmaceutical industry; the ability to obtain governmental and self-regulatory organization approvals of the merger on the proposed terms and schedule; the actual terms of the financing required for the merger and/or the failure to obtain such financing; the failure of Schering-Plough or Merck stockholders to approve the merger; the risk that the businesses will not be integrated successfully; disruption from the merger making it more difficult to maintain business and operational relationships; the possibility that the merger does not close, including, but not limited to, due to the failure to satisfy the closing conditions; Merck’s and Schering-Plough’s ability to accurately predict future market conditions; dependence on the effectiveness of Merck’s and Schering-Plough’s patents and other protections for innovative products; the risk of new and changing regulation and health policies in the U.S. and internationally and the exposure to litigation and/or regulatory actions. Merck and Schering-Plough undertake no obligation to publicly update any forward-looking statement, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise. Additional factors that could cause results to differ materially from those described in the forward-looking statements can be found in Merck’s 2008 Annual Report on Form 10-K, Schering-Plough’s 2008 Annual Report on Form 10-K and each company’s other filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “SEC”) available at the SEC’s Internet site (www.sec.gov).
