Creating America's Best Home Building Company

On April 8, 2009, Centex and Pulte Homes announced that we have agreed to merge our companies to create what we believe will be the largest and best-positioned homebuilder in America.

By combining our two companies, we will create a stronger organization with increased scale and resources that delivers greater value to our customers. And the communities where we build will benefit from our financial strength, careful practices, and heritage of doing the right thing.

Here's a few facts you should know about Centex and Pulte Homes:

- Together, the two companies have more than 120 years of combined experience
- Pulte and Centex are the industry's recognized leaders in customer satisfaction and corporate responsibility
- They are the only homebuilders to have received the Platinum Award from J.D. Power & Associates for excellence in customer satisfaction
- We will have several of the industry's best and most recognized brands
- We're building value for our customers through a wide range of high-quality energy-efficient homes, from entry-level homebuyers to active adults

We don't expect the merger to be completed until the third quarter of 2009, and our teams will use the next few months to prepare for a seamless transition.

Importantly, you should continue to expect our industry-leading levels of customer service at every point in the home buying process.
