Express Scripts Improves Offer to Acquire Caremark

Raises 2007 Earnings Per Share Guidance Reflecting 26% to 29% Growth

St. Louis, March 7, 2007 Express Scripts, Inc. (Nasdaq: ESRX) today announced an enhancement of its offer to acquire Caremark Rx, Inc (NYSE: CMX). The Express Scripts offer is to acquire all outstanding shares of Caremark for $29.25 in cash and 0.426 shares of Express Scripts stock for each share of Caremark stock. The Company will now pay additional cash consideration of approximately 6 percent per annum on the $29.25 cash portion of Express Scripts offer.

This increased consideration of $0.00481 of cash per share per day will accrue commencing on April 1, 2007, through the closing date of Express Scripts acquisition of Caremark, or 45 days after the Company receives Federal Trade Commission (FTC) approval of the transaction, whichever comes first. This additional cash consideration will be paid to Caremark stockholders upon the acquisition of Caremark. Express Scripts indicated that it expects to receive a second request from the FTC and believes its acquisition of Caremark will close no later than the third quarter of 2007.

This enhanced offer demonstrates our commitment to this transaction and confidence in our ability to consummate it in a timely manner, added George Paz, president, chief executive officer and chairman. The pharmacy benefit management marketplace is highly competitive and will remain so after the combination of Express Scripts and Caremark . For example, more than 30 different companies provide prescription drug program management services to the Fortune 500. As a result, we believe that we can successfully complete the regulatory review process in a timely manner.

Due to strong underlying trends, including greater success with mid-year renewals, higher growth in the middle market, and lower drug purchasing costs, the Company is increasing its previous 2007 earnings guidance. Express Scripts is increasing its previous 2007 diluted earnings per share guidance from a range of $4.08 to $4.20 to a range of $4.14 to $4.26. This increased guidance is based on Express Scripts' stand alone performance, and specifically excludes the financial impact of either a completed acquisition or an unsuccessful effort to be the acquirer of Caremark.

Express Scripts' increased 2007 diluted earnings per share guidance reflects growth of 26 to 29 percent over 2006. However, Express Scripts stock currently trades at a P/E multiple of 17.8 times, which is a significant discount to its historical P/E multiple, which has averaged 20 to 22 times. Based on the current P/E level and Express Scripts' strong outlook for the future, the Company believes there is significant upside to its stock price in the short-term as well as in the long-term.

Caremark stockholders would own a high growth Express Scripts stock, and in the CVS proposal, Caremark's stockholders are being offered currency in a lower growth stock. Express Scripts has significantly outperformed CVS over the last 10 years, with total stockholder returns of 1531% to 315%, respectively. The Express Scripts proposal also offers greater certainty of value provided by the greater cash portion of its offer.

In a letter today to Caremark's Board of Directors, Express Scripts once again called upon the Board to discuss Express Scripts' superior offer to acquire Caremark. Following is a copy of the letter that Express Scripts sent to the Caremark Board:

March 7, 2007

Board of Directors

Caremark Rx, Inc.

211 Commerce Street, Suite 800

Nashville, Tennessee 37201

Ladies and Gentlemen:

We remain committed to effecting a combination of our respective businesses, and we remain steadfast that we can close the transaction no later than the third quarter of 2007. In this regard, our board of directors has authorized an increase to the cash portion of our offer of an additional $0.00481 in cash per day. This represents an increase to our offer of approximately 6% per annum on the $29.25 cash portion of our offer. This increased cash consideration will accrue commencing on April 1, 2007 through the closing of the acquisition of Caremark by Express Scripts, or 45 days after Express Scripts receives Federal Trade Commission approval of the transaction, whichever comes first. This additional cash consideration will be paid to Caremark stockholders upon the acquisition of Caremark.

In light of the observations made by the Delaware Court of Chancery regarding Caremark's process, we continue to believe that it is time, for the sake of your stockholders, that we sit down and talk. It is time that you acknowledge the undeniable merits of a horizontal PBM transaction. This course is in the best interests of your stockholders. We also firmly believe that our respective stockholders, the market and plan sponsors and patients want to see us talking and moving forward as a combined stand-alone PBM.

As I have said before, we and our advisors are ready to meet with you and your advisors to discuss our offer and to begin confirmatory due diligence immediately, a process that, with your cooperation, we should be able to complete very quickly. In this regard, we remain willing to sign a confidentiality agreement and, concurrently with the due diligence process, negotiate a merger agreement with you. I also want to be clear that if we were able to identify additional value during due diligence, including if we determine that there are greater net synergies beyond what we have reflected in our analysis thus far, it could result in an increase to our offer price.

It has been and remains an unwavering truth that the Express Scripts offer is in the best interests of Caremark stockholders – it offers them better value and is predicated on a model with proven strategic rationale. We have repeatedly cited stockholder affirmation of our position, and indeed, the market has consistently valued our offer higher than the CVS offer.

The future of our combined companies would be bright and our respective stockholders, plan sponsors and patients would thank us for the value we would create and the benefits we would offer.

Sincerely,

/s/ George Paz

George Paz

President, Chief Executive Officer

and Chairman of the Board
