MORE INFORMATION ON QUADRAMED RESTATEMENT DELAY

San Rafael, California - Wednesday, August 14, 2002 - QuadraMed Corporation (Nasdaq: QMDC) provided further information on its earlier announcement today regarding the delay in restating its consolidated financial statements for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2000 and 2001, and the interim period ended March 31, 2002, and in filing its Securities and Exchange Commission Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the period ending June 30, 2002.

The Company stated that it was in the process of interviewing forensic accountants to assist the Company in obtaining additional information relating to the Company's accounting records and, among other things, assist in the reconstruction of corporate records related to many of the Company's acquisitions prior to 2000. One possible outcome of this process is the reclassification of intangible assets and a change in amortization expense in past, current, or future periods. The Company also said that it would review all of its existing software contracts to determine whether the language conforms to present and past revenue recognition methodologies. This could result in deferral or acceleration of revenue recognition and could affect reported revenue in past, current, or future periods.

In addition to these new matters, the Company previously announced on August 12, 2002, that its restatement was to be delayed because of the following items:

- o The previously announced changes in revenue recognition on software term licenses and the deferral of revenue on certain software sales.
- o The timing and classification of certain non-recurring charges from prior years.

Edgar Filing: QUADRAMED CORP - Form 8-K

- o The previously announced recognition of other than temporary impairment of QuadraMed's equity investment in VantageMed Corporation (Nasdaq SmallCap: VMDC).
- o The previously announced decline in cash surrender value of insurance policies associated with SERP and Split-Dollar obligations to former management.
- o The reclassification of certain previously reported discontinued operations to income from continuing operations.
- o Certain severance expenses due to accelerated vesting of restricted stock in 2000.

QuadraMed expects to make further announcements regarding the status of its restatement efforts in the coming days.
